

Ten Commandments of Motivation

Share responsibility, remember that as you take credit for the success, you must also share the failure.

Understand that as a leader you can give authority and allow others to contribute to their own and your success.

Constantly remind yourself that only through participation can others make their jobs meaningful.

Communicate the “why” as well as the “what” to ensure that understanding and cooperation become a habit.

Evaluate accomplishments on the basis of the result achieved rather than on the activities engaged in.

Know that most people would rather succeed than fail at their jobs.

Seek to always set a good example.

Force yourself to set goals and priorities.

Unceasingly seek to be objective, fair and honest.

Light the way for change.
