

CALL FOR PAPERS
LONGWOOD UNIVERSITY
PRESENTS
THE THIRTEENTH ANNUAL MEETING IN
THE MIDDLE:
FORGING MEDIEVAL IDENTITY

An Undergraduate Research Conference in Medieval and Renaissance Studies
5–6 April 2019

Longwood's Medieval Undergraduate Conference has been bringing together students from institutions across the Southeast and Mid-Atlantic to share and showcase their research in Medieval and Renaissance topics. Past conferences have shown the diversity and richness of these fields, and so we again invite students and faculty from the many different disciplines in Late Antique, Medieval, and Renaissance studies to the literal "middle", Farmville, Virginia, where we will again find common ground.

Students may present 20 minute-papers on history, literature, art history, drama, music, philosophy, religion, or any other discipline dealing with the medieval or early modern eras.

This conference includes two distinguished plenary speakers: Dr. Jonathan Hsy, Associate Professor of English at George Washington University and specialist in late medieval literature and culture, ranging from translation studies to disability theory; and Dr. Nicholas Paul, Associate Professor of History at Fordham University, whose research focuses on the world of the lay nobility in the central Middle Ages, and the intersection between that world and the experience of crusading.

Please submit abstracts of 250 words, including your name, university, and paper title to:
Dr. Larissa Tracy: tracylc@longwood.edu or Dr. Steven Isaac: isaacs@longwood.edu.

Deadline for proposals is January 25, 2019.
